A Presentation for Grandparents Raising Grandchildren

This unique presentation will address grandparents' questions about their own medications, topics that pertain to adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) that their grandchildren or they may have experienced, and the potential implications of ACEs for mental and physical health. The risk for future drug use or drug abuse will also be addressed. Dr. Michael Campbell, pharmacy manager at Walgreens, is the presenter, and his hope is that the presentation will provide grandparents with feedback on how to practice better self-care. In turn, this may help grandchildren learn self-care and self-regulation, thus providing them with the best opportunity for success in school and society.
