

World History and Geography

Prerequisite: None

This course covers world history and geography from early civilization to the present. Critical thinking, study skills, problem solving, teamwork, and the integration of all forms of technology will be encouraged. This course also includes historical interpretation, primary source review, and analysis skills.