This Week

In reading we read an informational text titled Animals Building Homes. We spent time talking about headings and how they are helpful when reading this genre.

In writing, we are working on writing an informational paragraph comparing people's homes to animals homes.

In Foundations, we learned five new glued sounds. These new glued sounds have an exception because the vowel is making a long vowel sound.

We continued to work on writing and identifying singular and plural nouns. We also learned two prefixes we can add to words to change their meanings. We focused on the prefixes un- and re-.
