Period: 7

Course Description

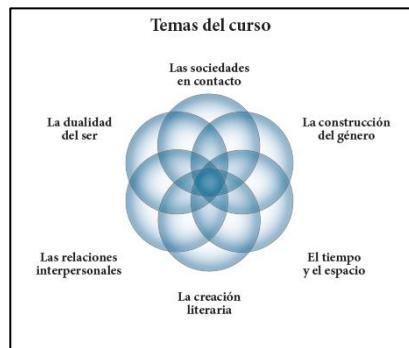

"The AP® Spanish Literature and Culture course is designed to provide students with a learning experience equivalent to that of an introductory college course in literature written in Spanish. The course introduces students to the formal study of a representative body of texts from Peninsular Spanish, Latin American, and U.S. Hispanic literature. The course provides opportunities for students to demonstrate their proficiency in Spanish across the three modes of communication (interpersonal, interpretive, and presentational) and the five goal areas (communication, cultures, connections, comparisons, and communities) outlined in the Standards for Foreign Language Learning in the 21st Century. The overarching aims of the course are to provide students with ongoing and varied opportunities to further develop their proficiencies across the full range of language skills — with special attention to critical reading and analytical writing — and to encourage them to reflect on the many voices and cultures included in a rich and diverse body of literature written in Spanish."

The inclusion of "and Culture" in the title of the course reflects a purposeful alignment of the course to a standards-based Spanish curriculum. In particular, the course reflects a meaningful integration of the cultures, connections, and comparisons goal areas of the Standards. Emphasis is placed on approaching the study of literature through global, historical and contemporary cultural contexts. Teachers and students are encouraged to make interdisciplinary connections and explore linguistic and cultural comparisons. A key objective of the course is to encourage students not only to understand and retell the content of the texts they read but also to relate that content to literary, historical, sociocultural, and geopolitical contexts in Spanish." (excerpt from the current AP Spanish Literature Course Description)

The overarching goals for the course are summarized by the Standards' "Five C's:" communication, cultures, connections, comparisons and communities. I add a 6th C, creativity, which will be discussed later.

The course will be conducted completely in Spanish in order to provide students with as much practice in the target language and a more authentic experience with the literature.

Themes & Essential Questions

The course will be taught chronologically, beginning in the Medieval Period and ending with contemporary literature, using the required reading list from the College Board. Throughout the course, students will be given the opportunity to look at each of the works of literature through the multiple lenses these themes provide. Additionally, the following essential questions will guide the course as a whole:

- How do these works of literature reveal the perspectives and customs of a particular culture and time period?
- How do the literary, historical, sociocultural and geopolitical contexts of a given time period affect the literary work's creation?
- What questions and dilemmas expressed in the literary works of different authors and in different time periods are still relevant today?
- What does the study of written literature in Spanish contribute to the study of the language?
- What questions does literature generate about literature itself and other art forms?

Each of the themes has subthemes that will help orient the study of the works of literature. Below are the themes, subthemes and essential questions, taken directly from the Course Description.

Units of Study

The course will be taught in a chronological order with the course themes discussed throughout. As the course progresses, reference will be made to previous works to emphasize the importance of themes.

Every week, a discussion question (from Azulejos or one similar to the released exams) will be posted on the class website. All students will be required to answer the question and comment on each other's posts to stimulate dialogue on the literary works.

All units will follow a similar structure:

- presentation of historical, socioeconomic, religious and cultural context
- introduction of the literary terminology and vocabulary needed to understand the work of literature
- reading and discussion of the literature, using essential questions to guide discussion
- comparison of each work to a visual work of art

- creative project (i.e. create movie trailers with an emphasis on theme or plot, write a song that relates to the theme, create a visual work of art that represents the concepts in the literature, create a comic book version of the work, etc.)
- unit assessment that will include both multiple choice questions and written responses (based on the format of the actual AP exam)
- Several times throughout the year, students will write formal essays.

Whole class discussions regarding the major themes of the course; thematic groupings of the readings

The AP Spanish Literature and Culture exam is Tuesday, May 12, 2015.

After the exam we will work on several projects and prepare for the final exam.

Classroom Requirements

Students are expected to

1. be on time and prepared for class. On time means in the room when the bell rings. If you are not in the room by the time the bell has rung, you will be marked tardy.
2. speak in Spanish only while in the classroom. Points will be deducted from the subsequent assessment for each time English is used.
3. maintain a neat and organized 3-ring binder that will be used solely for this class.
4. have a one-subject notebook that will be used in class on a daily basis.
5. complete and understand (as best you can) all assigned readings.
6. bring all materials to class everyday. This includes texts, blue or black pen for notes and a red pen for correcting, #2 pencils for Scantron quizzes and tests, etc.

7. all work must be done in black or blue ink or typed. It must be on standard 8-1/2" by 11" binder paper that is not torn, wrinkled, folded, torn from a spiral notebook, etc or I will give it right back to you!
8. all projects and papers must be typed.
9. complete all assignments and turn them in at the beginning of the class period.
10. RESPECT EVERYONE in the classroom. Everybody has a valid opinion. We must agree that we can (and will) disagree. If there is a disagreement, argue against the rationale not the individual.

Behavioral Expectations:

Students are to behave in a civil, adult manner. I will treat each person in this class as an adult. If a student begins to act in a childish manner, I will treat him accordingly.

Behavioral Expectations include, but are not limited to:

1. Students should arrive to class on time and be ready to learn when the bell rings
2. Students are expected to behave in an appropriate manner
3. Disruptive behavior will be frowned upon and unequivocally disapproved of
4. Talking should be kept to a minimum and be related to the course

Behavioral Consequences:

1. A verbal warning
2. A second verbal warning requires that the student remain 15 minutes after school in hallowed Shrine of Wisdom (my office).
3. Should the need arise, a third warning will, in addition to the above mentioned consequences, warrant a phone call to the appropriate parent or guardian.
4. In the rare event that a situation should require further action, the student will be sent to either his/her counselor.

Addendum: In the event of extremely disrespectful or disruptive behavior, the student will be sent directly to the Assistant Principal's Office.
