ESTUDIOS SOCIALES/CIENCIA

Social Studies/Science

This week students learned about why Spain explored lands north of New Spain (1500's). Next week, students will understand how Native Americans and Spanish conquistadors interacted with the Southwest environment and adapted their lives.

Class News

FROM MRS. BLACKWELL

THANK YOU so much for your generous donations for the read-a-thon! Our class is in a solid 3rd place and we have beat our goal! The kids will get an ice cream party on Friday, sponsored by our PTO. The fund raiser does run through October 1st, so we COULD still come in first in the whole school.... 😊 Thank you again for your generosity!!

SPELLING: This week before break, we will not enter new words. We will test on list 8 on Thursday, our last spelling test of the quarter!

MATH: There will be a bell work quiz on Friday, but no Saxon test this week. There will not be Saxon homework either, rather we will work on review concepts in class this week. Homework will match the topic reviewed for the lesson each day.

Reading: Our story this week is What Do Illustrators Do? We will be investigating and applying how illustrations help readers understand mood/tone, characters and settings.

Reading/Lectura

This week students learned about various activities and hobbies, practiced the days of the week and identified the main idea and details in a story. Next week, students will talk about their school day and activities done at school. Students will review the letters g and j in Spanish and when to use each one. They will also review and practice time order words and expressions, such as por la mañana.
