

Name: _____

Stranded

You and a group of approximately 20 others (ages 10-17) have become stranded on a deserted island. Fruit trees appear to be the major source of food. Water is available from rainfall. You possess only the clothes that you are wearing. There is no apparent shelter. (This is all the information you will receive about your situation.)

Work with your table to answer the following questions. Be detailed in your answers.

1. What would be your major problems as an individual?

2. What would you (as an individual) need to do first?

3. What would the major problems of the group be?

4. What would the group need to do first?

5. Explain what types of persons in the group would likely emerge as leaders.

6. Describe the types of conflict that might occur among individuals in the group.

7. How might these problems be resolved?

8. How might order be established and maintained in the group?

9. How would the health and safety of group members be established and maintained?
