Writing

PROFICIENCY LEVEL DESCRIPTORS

Pre-Emergent

The student may be able to print their first name. The student is able to distinguish between letters and words. The student may be able to correlate the sound-symbol relationship to generate recognizable letters. The student recognizes that spoken words are represented by written language.

Emergent

The student is able to correlate the sound-symbol relationship to generate recognizable letters and words. The student relies on environmental print in the classroom to write words, phrases and simple sentences with instructional support. The student is able to begin sentences with a capital letter and use ending punctuation.

Basic

The student at this level is able to write simple sentences using basic vocabulary, with subjects and predicates which utilize the parts of speech and simple verb tenses including subject-verb agreement with instructional support. The student is able to correctly apply capitalization, spacing and ending punctuation. Spelling is inconsistent and may interfere with meaning.

Low Intermediate

The student at this level is able to write sentences incorporating grade level vocabulary using a variety of subject and predicate structures. The student will utilize the parts of speech and simple verb tenses with subject-verb agreement, although not consistently. The writing is organized to include a beginning, middle, and end in a three to five sentence paragraph. Spelling is inconsistent but does not interfere with meaning.

High Intermediate

The student at this level is able to write sentences incorporating grade level vocabulary using a variety of subject and predicate structures. The student will utilize the parts of speech and multiple verb tenses with subject-verb agreement. The writing is organized to include a clear beginning, middle, and end in a three to five sentence paragraph. Spelling may be inconsistent but does not interfere with meaning.
