Tao Chi (1642-1707)

"Bamboo In Wind and Rain" - 1694

In Art Masterpiece today, your child learned about a small part of Chinese history, watched a video on bamboo painting and learned about scroll painting. Tao Chi has long been recognized as one of China's finest artists. His talents were not limited to painting though - he was a fine calligrapher, poet, philosopher and landscape gardener. Keywords used in today's lesson were: scroll, brushstroke, line, seals, tint, and depth. The students painted their own scroll paintings in the style of Tao Chi and even added their own red seal. The class also listened to some excerpts from traditional Chinese music – the Guo Brothers and Shung Tian. Music of rural China, evoking intense moods of peace and sadness, takes the listener on a journey from the vast plains of Mongolia to the most remote mountain villages. CONNECTION: Same country and style.
