

Fifteen

William Stafford

South of the Bridge on Seventeenth I found back of the willows one summer day a motorcycle with engine running as it lay on its side, ticking over 5 slowly in the high grass. I was fifteen.

I admired all that pulsing gleam, the shiny flanks, the demure headlights fringed where it lay; I led it gently to the road and stood with that 10 companion, ready and friendly. I was fifteen.

We could find the end of a road, meet the sky on out Seventeenth. I thought about hills, and patting the handle got back a confident opinion. On the bridge we indulged 15 a forward feeling, a tremble. I was fifteen.

Thinking, back farther in the grass I found the owner, just coming to, where he had flipped over the rail. He had blood on his hand, was pale—I helped him walk to his machine. He ran his hand 20 over it, called me a good man, roared away.

I stood there, fifteen.
